POLITICAL NEWS AND GOSSIP.

New York Democratic Convention Convenes at Saratoga.

PROCEEDINGS SINGULARLY HARMONIOUS

No Allusion to the Tariff Question—Proceedings of Numerous Conventions—Miscellaneous Political Points.

New York Democratic Convention.

[illegible] June 18.—The democratic state convention met at the United States hotel last night, Daniel [illegible] in the chair. Resolutions of the Tammany [illegible] were read claiming [illegible] representation equal to that of any [illegible] in the convention from New York. In [illegible] organization, after a long debate W. C. Whitney offered [illegible] resolution: That the action of the last state convention [illegible] the representation of New York [illegible] in making up the preliminary roll. This [illegible] carried. That representation [illegible] county democracy 35, Tammany 24, Irving hall [illegible].

John Kelly's most [illegible] friends aver [illegible] declared his intention to have Tammany [illegible] convention, owing to the action of the [illegible] last night in the apportionment of [illegible] three democratic bodies of [illegible] editor of [illegible] New [illegible] denies the rumor [illegible] declined positively to an associated [illegible] that [illegible] the convention upholds [illegible] delegates from New York, the [illegible] will not enter the convention [illegible] the train for home.

After refe[illegible] to the republican party and the [illegible] the democratic party, Water[illegible] resolutions:

The reading of the resolutions was interrupted by frequent applause and cheers for Cleveland and counter cheers for Flower. The resolutions unanimously passed.

The reading of the list of delegates to Chicago was next taken up. It was found that two districts were unrepresented and this led to a long discussion, during which Herrick of Albany declared New York city was striving for representation it was not entitled to, and at the expense of democratic representatives throughout the state.

It was nearly 11 o'clock before the district delegates in question were agreed upon.

The delegates at large are Daniel Manning, Edward Cooper, Lester B. Faulkner and John C. Jacobs. The present incumbents, Charles Andrews and Charles A. Rapallo, were renominated judges of the court of appeals.

Whitney of New York offered a resolution that the state committee be authorized to fill any vacancies which may occur in said committee or any electoral [illegible] carried. The convention then adjourned.

A canvass of the Cleveland men shows their claim to be that the delegation from this convention was [illegible] three to one in favor of Cleveland. Many Flower men concede Cleveland a majority, but [illegible] admit it even two to one.

State Conventions

LOUISIANA DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

NEW ORLEANS, June 18.—A special to the Picayune from Baton Rouge says: The democratic state convention assembled yesterday. It pledged the state for any nominee or platform that may be uttered by the Chicago convention. After appointing committees a recess was taken.

[illegible] ROUGE, June 18.—The democratic state convention adopted a platform last night congratulating the party on its brilliant prospects and putting [illegible] in line with the brethren of sister states. It reaffirms the principles of the party; that it is the duty of the country to protect all citizens and conserve all industries; favors a tariff for revenue limited to the necessities of the government economically administered, and so adjusted as to prevent unequal burdens, encourage productions and home industries, and afford just compensation to labor, but not to create or foster monopolies. The general government should care for and improve the great water ways of the republic. It favors the nomination of Tilden as not only essential as a rebuke to fraud and misgovernment, but it is hereby declared the duty of the democratic party to itself and country, and it requests the delegates from this convention to represent and sustain the views expressed in these resolutions.

The democratic convention nominated four delegates at large and adjourned.

COLORADO DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

DENVER, June 18.—The democratic state convention was held at Pueblo yesterday afternoon. Hon. Adair Wilson of Del Norte was chosen permanent chairman. The afternoon and evening were occupied in perfecting the organization. At 11:30 P. M. the convention was still in session with no immediate prospect of adjournment.

DENVER, June 18.—At 2:10 this morning, the democratic state convention, held at Pueblo, elected as delegates to Chicago Governor Grant, M. S. Waller, M. D. Crow, J. D. McGilvery, Dennis Sullivan and J. R. Letcher. The delegation is uninstructed, but Cleveland is probably its choice.

The democratic state convention at Pueblo adopted resolutions which denounce the extravagance and dishonesty of the republican party and the continued encroachments of the federal government upon the reserved rights of states. They demand free and unlimited coinage, favor a strong and effective navy, and denounce the infamy of 1876, when Tilden and Hendricks were by fraud and threats of civil war deprived of the offices to which they were elected.

CALIFORNIA PROHIBITION CONVENTION

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—The state prohibition convention elected the following delegates to the national convention: First district, H. A. Mayhew, W. G. Swan and T. H. Lining; second district, W. M. Forbis, C. A. Bateman and F. McDonald Green; third district, H. J. Becker, G. M. Golding and H. J. Ross; sixth district, G. Steele, W. D. Gould and S. Fowler. The following were elected delegates at large: R. H. McDonald, [illegible] L. Calef, J. Russell, J. A. Fairbanks and T. N. Willis. It was moved that the delegation be instructed to present the name of Dr. R. H. McDonald of San Francisco for president of the United States on the prohibition ticket. The following were named as nominees for congress: First district, C. P. Bateman; second district, J. B. Webster; third district, T. J. Willis; sixth district, W. D. Gould.

VERMONT REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

BURLINGTON, June 18.—The republican state convention met this forenoon. There is a large attendance. Reference to Blaine received great enthusiasm. Samuel E. Pingree was nominated for governor by acclamation; E. J. Ormsby for lieutenant governor, and W. H. Dubois for treasurer. Recess.

At the afternoon session of the republican state convention George Nichols of Northfield was named for secretary; E. H. Powell was nominated auditor. The resolutions adopted declare allegiance to republican principles as enunciated in the national convention platform, and pledge support to the nominee of that convention. The other resolutions relate to state affairs. Henry Ballard, one of the Chicago delegates, addressed the convention, highly eulogizing Blaine. Adjourned.

INDIANA REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

INDIANAPOLIS, June 18.—The republican convention to nominate candidates for state offices will be held in this city to-morrow. Nearly all the delegates are now in the city. Canvassing in the interest of the various candidates is very active. The principal interest centers in the contest for governor, the leading candidates being Colonel W. H. Calkins and Commissioner of Pensions Dudley. The latter did not reach the city until last night and has lost some votes because of the delay. His friends are now pushing his claims vigorously. The friends of Postmaster General Gresham held a meeting this afternoon and decided to present his name to the convention. Calkins is largely in the lead and will likely be nominated. There will be spirited contests on some other portions of the ticket.

OHIO PROHIBITION CONVENTION

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 18.—The state prohibition convention met to-day. One hundred delegates were present. The declaration of principles rehearsed the damage of the liquor traffic, asserts the inability of the old parties to remedy the evils, and reiterates the [illegible] scheme of a false count of the vote on the second amendment last fall. The Woman's National Temperance Union is invited to cooperate. Nominations: Secretary of state, E. J. Morris of Cincinnati; supreme judge, J. W. Roseborough of Fulton county; member of the board of public works, W. [illegible] Kirkendall of Jackson; electors at large, Z. C. Payne of Franklin and Ferdinand Schumacher.

The Woman Suffrage State Association elected Congressman Ezra B. Taylor president.

DELAWARE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

DOVER, June 17.—The democratic state convention was called to order at 1:30 P. M. Chairman [illegible] of the state committee, in his remarks mentioned Bayard, whose name was greeted with tremendous applause.

The committee on resolutions then reported. John W. Fraser, in moving the adoption of the resolutions, made a short speech, saying that like Webster, Bayard was [illegible] for a candidate and platform. The resolutions were adopted amid great cheering, and the convention then adjourned.

MAINE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

BANGOR, June 17.—The following resolution was unanimously adopted and telegraphed to Chairman Manning of the New York state committee: "Resolved, That it is the opinion of this convention the nomination of Grover Cleveland of New York as candidate for the presidency is demanded as the best to unite all friends of good government, sound morals and wise and honorable administration of the affairs of the nation."

ILLINOIS PROHIBITION CONVENTION

BLOOMINGTON, June 18.—The state prohibition convention assembled at 9 A. M. Four hundred delegates are present. A very brief address was made by ex-Governor St. John of Kansas. A committee of twenty was appointed to name twenty-five delegates at large to Pittsburg, to add to the list of twenty-five to be selected by the different districts.

MICHIGAN DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

DETROIT, June 18.—The democratic state convention met in this city this forenoon. A temporary [illegible] the usual committees [illegible]. The convention is fully attended and very enthusiastic. The preference of the body is unmistakably for Cleveland as presidential candidate.

TENNESSEE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

NASHVILLE, June 18.—The democratic convention met at noon. Hon. J. D. [illegible] was permanent chairman. The delegates at large to the national convention are [illegible]. Adjourned to [illegible] M.

Blaine and Logan at Ellsworth.

ELLSWORTH, June 17.—To-night a large crowd gathered at [illegible]. The reception committee, accompanied by a band of music, proceeded to escort Blaine, Logan and Hale from the residence of the latter to the hall where a grand reception was held [illegible] shaking hands with the illustrious visitors. At 9 the party went to the residence of Hale, where Blaine and Logan were received with cheers. Hale, after a brief address, presented Hon. James G. Blaine, who [illegible] of great gratitude [illegible] Maine for many years for their friendship, support and confidence, but he never was so profoundly touched as he had been by the manner in which he had recently been received by all classes and all parties in the state of Maine, for he had received [illegible] the courtesy and kindness manifested by those who had in the past been opposed to him politically. Whatever may be the issue in the pending campaign, [illegible] the people of Maine he has [illegible] in a manner that gives him the most [illegible] satisfaction. Continuing, he said:

There is after all [illegible] in addressing [illegible] with whom one has been associated [illegible] years. My esteem is not sufficiently developed to make me think that this vast assemblage has come together so much to see me as to see my [illegible] associate on the regular republican ticket, General Logan. As a final response to my thanks to your most generous attention I will present to you the gallant hero from Illinois. [Loud cheers and applause.]

LOGAN'S REMARKS

General Logan said: Ladies and gentlemen: I am very highly gratified indeed to meet so many citizens of this beautiful city to-night. I have also been very much pleased in passing through your proud state to find the kindly feeling that exists in every [illegible] to your fellow citizen and neighbor, Mr. Blaine. [Applause.] It is said that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country, but I must say that the reverse of this is true in Maine concerning him of whom I have spoken. The people of this country under our form of government have and claim the right to express their views on any question, and also to choose whom they wish to represent them in any capacity. This is true of the convention recently held in Chicago. No one doubts that it gave expression to the voice of the people in announcing in unmistakable terms a citizen of your state as their choice for the highest office in their gift. [Applause.] The assertion this evening is to say the majority shall not control. The people of this country know what they want and also whom they want. In my judgment they wanted a man capable of performing the duties of the position intelligently, a man who will understand the needs and wants of the people, a man who has knowledge of and experience in connection with the affairs of the government. They want a man who understands the diversified interests of the great people and will make all proper means for their protection and success, a man who knows the wants of the masses and the needs of the laborer, and will use all his power and influence in carrying forth those wants and interests; a man that is conversant with our commercial relations with foreign nations, and a man who realizes that a greater outlet is needed for our surplus products, and can and will in a proper manner establish relations with our sister republics of Mexico and South America that will enlarge our commerce with them; a man who understands what American manhood is, and who will in a proper way make the citizens of the United States feel pride in being a citizen, and that he will receive proper protection both at home and abroad. My fellow citizens, the people of this country want a man that will not only support and sustain the constitution, but faithfully and conscientiously execute the laws in all parts of the land. [Applause and cheers.] Believing that the American people want a man of the character I have described, I may well say that he has been found in the person of J. G. Blaine. [Loud cheers.] Fellow citizens, when the ides of November shall come the people of this great republic will give notice to the world that they made him president of the United States. [Great applause.] I do not hesitate to say that I feel honored in being associated with this, your honored citizen, on a ticket for the two highest offices in the gift of the American people. [Great applause.]

Political Points.

THE [illegible] AMONG DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, June 18.—[Special.]—Speculations among the democrats as to the possible choice of the July convention is at a standstill. They are anxiously awaiting the result of the convention in New York. The prevailing opinion here seems to be that notwithstanding Flower has a decided majority of the delegates, public sentiment is in favor of Cleveland, and will compel the convention to endorse him as the choice of the party in New York state. If this is not done it will in the judgment of Cleveland's friends materially damage if not altogether destroy his prospects. The Flower men in congress—and there appears to be quite a number of them—will insist that he will make the strongest candidate the democrats could nominate, but older politicians, who are principally senators, regard with distrust the mere mention of his name. The prospect of a warm and close fight between Cleveland and Flower in New York resulting in the sending of an uninstructed delegation to Chicago has directed attention more particularly to Senator Bayard. The independents have generally declared a willingness to support either Bayard or Cleveland, and in order to get their votes many democrats think that one or the other of these men should be nominated. Advocates of Bayard's nomination scout the idea that a sectional fight could be made against him. They say that his course in public life for the past fifteen years is sufficient answer to all allegations of disloyalty and that his patriotism can not be questioned.

THE CLAIMS OF THE WEST

Western democrats are looking with great interest to New York. They believe that if Cleveland fails to secure the New York delegation the nomination will go to the west. Ex-Senator McDonald's friends express the opinion that the contest is between Cleveland and McDonald, and that if the action of the New York convention puts Cleveland out of the question Indiana will carry off the prize.

"Cleveland is the only man we have to fear," said one of the most influential and active workers for McDonald. "If his state backs him with any sort of unanimity he will be nominated. If it does not, the sober judgment of the party will nominate McDonald."

It is estimated that besides Indiana McDonald will have Kentucky, a large portion of the Tennessee delegation, and a strong support from Arkansas, Texas and other southern states. There are quite a number of democrats who think that in the fight between Cleveland, Bayard and Flower there is a fair prospect that the party may go west for its candidate, in which event many of the older democratic members [illegible] Ex-Senator Thurman may be chosen. They believe that with him as the candidate Blaine can be beaten in Ohio. It is doubtful, however, if the democrats will be willing to hazard everything on the result [illegible] in the buckeye state.

The Star to-night says that the junta in New York is encouraging particularly to the Randall men, who have been reviving the Pennsylvania boom within the past twenty-four hours. They count upon Cleveland being killed off by Flower, and say that he is the only man in the east who has his state undivided.

ARRANGING FOR THE CONVENTION

CHICAGO, June 18.—The local committee on arrangements for the national democratic convention, at a meeting to-day decided to make no material change in the convention hall. The stage will be removed from the north end to the west side, and will have no room back of it for the stores, a feature which caused considerable trouble and annoyance on account of noise at the republican convention. The platform will be occupied only by the officers of the convention and the associated press. The newspaper representatives will have a platform by themselves, with an entrance for them alone, and space will be railed off so that they cannot be encroached on. The sub-committee of the national committee will meet to-morrow. Judge W. C. Goudy is chairman. Applications by newspapers for seats should be made to Austin H. Brown, chairman of the committee on press and telegraph, at Indianapolis and Chicago.

FROM THE PHILADELPHIA TIMES

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—[Special.]—Press editorial: The New York Times having talked vaguely about the independent vote at last ventures on a definition of the independents. They are, it seems, people who regard Blaine as a man who cannot be trusted. This is the beginning of their creed according to the Times, which gives a column to the matter, and this is the end of it. Blaine has behind him a party pledged to protection and the lowest taxation which the needs of the government and the demands of labor permit. He has the support of every independent in this state and he will have the great body of such voters elsewhere. The Times seems to us to occupy a narrow personal platform. It is not big enough to hold the independent vote, which is where it belongs, in the ranks of the republican party.

THE HERALD FOR CLEVELAND

NEW YORK, June 18.—[Special.]—Herald editorial: The convention which meets at Saratoga to-day has within its power to name the man who will be the next candidate of the party and the next president of the United States. If it gives a solid support to one who can carry New York without a doubt, and poll the democratic strength throughout the country, that man will be accepted by the Chicago convention and elected by the people. Cleveland has the available political strength and personal weight essential to success both at Chicago and the polls. He would carry New York without a question and poll the full vote of the party throughout the country. He is by all odds the strongest man New York can present at Chicago.

A [illegible] AND FULL STORY

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Special.—A cock and bull story is being published to the effect that the president and members of the cabinet have prepared an [illegible] for the approaching election, and it was intimated that the administration is openly opposed to Blaine's election. The only answer so far as the president is concerned to this matter is his telegram to Blaine on the day of the nomination pledging him his earnest and cordial support. The members of the cabinet [illegible] will do all in their power to secure the success of the ticket, and that there will be no halting or delay on the part of the administration to promote the interests of the republican party.

BALLOT BOX STUFFING

CHICAGO, June 18.—At the democratic primaries this evening, as voting was about to begin at one of the polls in the First district, where there are two factions, several men of one faction rushed the room, seized the ballot box and threw it to the floor. The box burst open, at the same time 400 or 500 tickets were scattered on the floor. The attacking party claim the box was stuffed. The judges claim the tickets were thrown on the floor by the intruders. The box was taken to the police station. [illegible] sensational charge [illegible] Mackin, democratic organizer of the city, was one of the judges, and that the leader of the invaders was Alderman Whelan of the First ward.

CONFERENCE OF INDEPENDENTS

NEW YORK, June 18.—A conference of independent republicans was held here this morning at the residence of [illegible] on Madison avenue. The [illegible] delegation [illegible] immediately after the adjournment. George William Curtis presided. [illegible] presented a series of resolutions, all of which [illegible] instructing the appointment of [illegible] those adopted [illegible] the conference [illegible] Carl Schurz, Moorfield Storey [illegible] Henry Hitchcock of St. Louis; Hon. T. W. Higginson of Boston [illegible] Felix Adler [illegible] Henry Ward Beecher and others.

BLAINE NOT AFRAID OF THE INDEPENDENTS

WASHINGTON, June 18.—[Special.]—Representative Milliken of Maine, who was the [illegible] of the [illegible] convention, returned to the house to-day. He called upon Blaine at Augusta, and says that he is not at all alarmed by the chattering of the independents [illegible] Massachusetts. Milliken said that in his opinion Massachusetts would give Blaine a good majority. He says that Blaine told him that he did not think that Massachusetts was yet ready for free trade, and that she had too many manufactures to [illegible] and would not have the [illegible] "continued Milliken," and she has too much grass land to want to start a prairie fire."

[illegible] INDEPENDENT

NEW YORK, June 19.—[Special.]—Sun editorial: [illegible] republican [illegible] the Times and Evening Post have taken a step which is the more important and interesting because in all probability neither of them will ever retract it. We expect to see them independent journals from this time forth. There have been many indications for some time past that they both were restless under party restrictions, and neither had much heart in their work as republican organs merely, nor do we expect that they will suffer because of their independence.

RUSSIAN PAPERS IN FAVOR OF BLAINE.

NEW YORK, June 18.—[Special.]—Times London: Several Russian papers just received here contain editorial reference to the nomination by the republican party of Blaine. They seem to consider the election of a [illegible] and express satisfaction [illegible] be that a Blaine administration in the United States means trouble ahead for England, and the Anglophobic animus of their comments is made without any attempt at concealment.

[illegible] TO CLEVELAND

NEW YORK, June 18.—[Special.]—The Sun says: Between [illegible] F. Bayard and Governor Cleveland we say emphatically that Bayard ought to be preferred. Cleveland is deservedly a weak candidate among democrats because he followed his own selfish purpose in undertaking to rule without regard to the party which made him governor. All the republican kickers in the world could not make up for the democratic votes he might lose if he were the candidate.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTOR CANDIDATES RESIGN

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—Dr. J. Campbell Shorb, who was elected presidential elector at the democratic state convention lately held at Stockton, has resigned. He says that if he went before the people they would understand that he endorsed the spirit [illegible] the platform adopted at the convention [illegible]. Martin, another presidential elector, has also resigned.

FLORIDA INDEPENDENT CONVENTION

LIVE OAK, Fla., June 18.—The state convention of independents met to-day. Twenty-seven counties were represented. Resolutions were adopted denouncing the bourbon democrat. F. W. Pope, a [illegible] democrat, was nominated for governor and J. C. Greeley, republican, for lieutenant governor. This is the first organized independent movement in Florida.

CLEVELAND FOR REVENUE REFORM

WASHINGTON, June 18.—[Special.]—The Post this morning says: Professor Perry of Williams college writes to a prominent democrat in Washington that he has direct assurances from Governor Cleveland that he stands abreast of Speaker Carlisle and Chairman Morrison in his demand that revenue reform be made the controlling democratic issue in the campaign.

BLAINE AND LOGAN DEMONSTRATION

WATERVILLE, Me., June 18.—On the arrival of the special train with Blaine, Logan and Hale the citizens turned out en masse. A delegation of Colby students was present. Citizens of the surrounding towns were largely represented. There was much enthusiasm shown.

NO ROOM FOR MASSACHUSETTS

NEW YORK, June 18.—[Special.]—The Sun editorially says: It is absurd to look upon Massachusetts as doubtful. She is safe for Blaine. The democrats would better let Massachusetts alone and concentrate their efforts on New York, Connecticut and Indiana, which are really doubtful states.

MONEY ON FIELD

He Gives His Views of the Recent Action of the California State Democratic Convention, and Assigns Its Motive

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The Post prints an interview with Representative Money of Mississippi concerning the presidential candidacy of Justice Field and the views of the latter with regard to the recent action of the California state democratic convention at Stockton. The most important parts of the interview are as follows: Learning that H. D. Money, who was one of Tilden's most efficient managers in the south in 1876, was very close to Judge Field, a Post reporter called upon Mr. Money for the purpose of ascertaining what were Mr. Field's views regarding the action of the democratic state convention of California and the editorial from the Alta California recently telegraphed east by the associated press. Money said he had just returned from a visit to Judge Field and had discussed the Alta editorial and the action of the California convention, that Judge Field had expressed himself substantially to this effect:

"There is a radical element in California politics that alarms conservative men in that state, without regard to party organization, as dangerous to the rights of property. I have never swerved from my duty to pander to that element, which is therefore hostile to me. This element does not constitute a majority of the democratic party of California, but is large enough to intimidate its organization. This element has resented judicial decisions [illegible] which would [illegible] receive their condemnation. The [illegible] action of the California convention is no surprise or disappointment to me. Most assuredly I have not desired any support which was not the result of open and frank appeal to public opinion, and as you know I said in public speech that I did not expect to receive their support, and it was so stated in the public print. I have not sought the nomination, and if I have allowed my name to be used it was in deference to the opinion of friends in different parts of the country, who acted without reference to California sentiment. The matter is with them and not with me. I don't suppose they will [illegible] their action because they fail to receive the support in a quarter where they never expected it."

MONEY'S VIEWS

[Special.]—Money said that he did not believe that the resolutions and instructions of the California convention would detract from Judge Field's availability as a candidate. As Judge Field says, he is unpopular with the radical element of California by reason of judicial decisions that were good law and sound, but did not suit the interest or temper of that element. He decided in favor of the holders of Mexican grants [illegible] settlers. His decision in the Chinese cases was distasteful. His decision in the railroad tax cases, that the property of railroads should be taxed as other property, incensed the railroad people. No man ever [illegible] that he has ever been improperly influenced. His high character and in fact his capacity and character are admittedly commanding and unapproachable. It would be unnatural for a convention entertaining the extreme views expressed in the newspaper summary of the Stockton platform to indorse Field, whose line of decisions mark him as the champion of law, order, rights of persons and rights of property. It cannot be expected that any man who may be nominated by the democratic national convention will stand upon the Stockton platform, or that he could be elected if he should stand upon it. The doubtful states of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hampshire would hardly be expected to help destroy the national banking system or to approve the extreme legislation proposed by the California legislature at its extra session, which the Stockton convention indorsed. These same decisions unpopular in California commend Judge Field to the conservative people of California and of the other states of the union, and most strongly in the doubtful states.

INDORSED BY THE CONSERVATIVES

"I think I have good authority from both parties," continued Money, "for saying that if nominated Judge Field will rally the conservative forces of the democratic and republican ranks and will carry the Pacific states. Nobody can [illegible] that he is stronger than any democrat who can be named. But the fact is that it seems to be generally conceded that no democrat can carry California against any [illegible]. The action of the democratic party has lost that state, and there is no reason why we should select a candidate with any reference to its vote. It will hardly be said that the prejudices and opinions which were potent against Judge Field in the Stockton convention will injure him elsewhere, or, in fact, will not distinguish him as the candidate to carry the doubtful states, where men believe in the reign of law, the blessing of order, the sanctity of contracts and the rights of persons and of property."

Why is [illegible] you [illegible] Judge Field's cause so warmly?

"Why, to me it is a matter of feeling, but if Judge [illegible] I forget that I pronounced [illegible] the opinion which admitted [illegible] federal courts [illegible] and that he protected the citizen from the tyranny of the military [illegible] of his noble assertion of the principles of the constitution, his unswerving devotion to right, justice and humanity, and of the illustration [illegible] the chief magistrate [illegible]."

In the afternoon the market was dull but firm. Missouri Pacific was exceptionally strong and touched the highest point for a long time past. The Senate Passes the Utah Bill, by a Vote of 33 to 15

THE HOUSE TAKES UP THE THURMAN BILL.

Provisions of the Utah Bill as Passed by the Senate—Report of Government Experts on the Union Pacific Company.

A Compromise with the Union Pacific

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The secretary of the interior has received the following communication from the chairman of the senate judiciary committee, dated June 17:

"Sir: In regard to matters between the United States and the Union Pacific Railroad Company arising under the act of 1878, and which the committee on judiciary of the senate has had for some time under consideration, I have the honor to inform you that the committee has this day adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the committee will postpone until the first Monday in December, 1884, further consideration of matters arising under the act of May 7, 1878, relating to the Union Pacific Railway company, if said company shall immediately carry out the offer of Mr. Adams as stated in his communication dated June 14, 1884, addressed to Hon. George F. Hoar, and on the express understanding that the action of the company and the United States in receiving the money and security in said communication mentioned shall have no effect on any penalty or forfeiture [illegible] the United States has incurred [illegible] or arising or to occur or arise against the said company or any of its officers, but that all rights, penalties and forfeitures shall stand as if those acts had not been done."

Which I send for your information, together with a copy of the communication of Mr. Adams to Mr. Hoar referred to in the resolution. Respectfully,

GEO. F. EDMUNDS, Chairman.

The main points of Adams' proposition are that the railway company shall immediately pay to the United States treasury $718,[illegible], the amount claimed by the government under the Thurman act of 1883; that all earnings for government transportation shall be retained by the government, and that no dividends shall be paid during the current year. All other matters in dispute are left for adjudication.

In Favor of Texas.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Nimmo, chief of the bureau of statistics, at the request of Secretary Folger, has prepared and transmitted an elaborate report on the proposed improvement in the harbor of Galveston, Texas. Nimmo thinks the proposed work is one of great national importance, and submits the following reasons why it should be undertaken: There is a great lack of harbor facilities on the Gulf of Mexico, especially west of the Mississippi. Second, the harbor of Galveston is one most susceptible to improvement. Third, the vast resources of Texas and their development, and the agricultural and commercial interests of an area as large as Great Britain and France, Spain, Italy and the German empire appear to warrant the proposed expenditure. Fourth, the work would greatly advance traffic interests. Fifth, it would, through the stimulation of competition, exert an important regulating influence upon the rates of transportation by rail, [illegible] and by sea via Panama and Cape Horn. The importance of the improvement from a military point of view is also considered.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Consideration of the Utah bill was resumed. Hoar offered an amendment to strike out the clause abolishing woman suffrage in Utah. Rejected—ayes 10, noes [illegible]. Those voting in the affirmative were Blair, Bowen, Brown, Cameron, [illegible] Dawes, Dolph, George, Hoar, Lapham, Manderson, Mitchell, Palmer, Pike, Sherman, Vance and Wilson.

Brown explained his vote by saying he was personally opposed to woman suffrage, but regarding it as entirely a local matter, and as it had been established in the territory, he would vote against the United States government interfering with it.

The bill was then passed—ayes 33, noes 15, as follows:

Yeas—Allison, Beck, Bowen, Cameron, Chilcott, Cullom, Dawes, Dolph, Edmunds, Fair, Frye, Garland, Harris, Ingalls, Jackson, Jones (Nev.), Lapham, McMillan, McPherson, Mahone, Manderson, Miller (Cal.), Mitchell, Morrill, Palmer, Pike, Pugh, Riddleberger, Sawyer, [illegible] and [illegible].

Nays—Bayard, Brown, Coke, George, Hampton, Jonas, Maxey, Morgan, Pendleton, [illegible], Vance, Vest and Wilson. Adjourned.

House.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The house proceeded to the consideration of the Pacific railroad bill, known as the Thurman amendment. It extends the provisions of the Thurman act to the Kansas Pacific, the Sioux City and Pacific, and the Central branch of the Union Pacific. It allows reinvestment of the sinking funds [illegible] first mortgage bonds or [illegible] securities [illegible] one half of the annual compensation for government service to be carried to the sinking fund, and [illegible] the annual payment into the sinking fund of the following sums: Central Pacific [illegible]; Union Pacific [illegible]; Kansas Pacific [illegible]; Central Branch [illegible]; Sioux City and Pacific [illegible], or as much of such sums as will make the total annual payment to the sinking fund equal to [illegible] per cent of the net earnings of the respective companies. In case the revenue [illegible] net earnings is insufficient to pay interest on the first mortgage bonds the amount necessary for that purpose may be remitted. The companies are required to pay to their sinking fund on or before January 1, 1885, the following sums, less the amounts due them for government service: Central and Union Pacific each $550,[illegible]; Kansas Pacific $[illegible]; Sioux City and Pacific and the Central branch of the Union Pacific $500,000 each. It forbids the payment of dividends while the companies are in default in regard to these requirements.

The majority report of the [illegible] committee provides for the extinguishment of debts due the government by the issue by the companies of sixty years redemption bonds.

Speeches were made by Throckmorton, Thompson, [illegible], Cassidy and Hewitt (N. Y.). The latter said he would move to recommit the bill with instructions directing the secretary of the treasury to report on the first Monday in December the plan by which the act of May 8, 1878, should be enlarged by additional payment to be made by the railroad companies, so that the debt to the United States, principal and interest, should certainly be paid at the maturity or at the expiration of such extension as the secretary might deem necessary to be made. What he asked was that the house should deal with these corporations as every business man would do with a debtor short of means, increase the debt or [illegible] give him an opportunity of paying his debt instead of [illegible] him.

The discussion was continued by Anderson, Laird, [illegible] and Sumner (California).

Thompson, having charge of the majority bill, offered an amendment making the aggregate payment required of the companies 5 per cent instead of 55. The previous question was ordered and the house took a recess until to-morrow.

HURRYING UP BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, June 18.—At the democratic caucus of members of the house last night the following resolution was passed: That we urge upon the house [illegible] as fast as possible to a conclusion the appropriation bills, and that we will take them up in preference to all other measures. A motion to urge the passage in the course of the bill to repeal the tax on tobacco was lost, as was also the motion making the order of business after the passage of the appropriation bills the consideration of bills from the committees on public lands and invalid pensions. The two appropriation bills, sundry civil and deficiency bills, are now in the hands of the committee, and it is expected will be reported to the house this week.

All laws of the territory of Utah conferring rights of inheritance on all illegitimate children are annulled. The territorial laws providing that prosecution for adultery can only be commenced on complaint of a husband or wife are annulled, and all such prosecutions may hereafter be instituted in the same way that prosecutions for other crimes are.

TERRITORIAL LAWS ANNULLED

Territorial laws incorporating, continuing or providing for the corporation known as the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, and the ordinances of the so-called general assembly of the state of Deseret incorporating such church, are annulled so far as they may preclude the appointment of trustees by the United States. The president of the United States, with the advice of the senate, shall appoint fourteen trustees for said corporation, who shall have the powers of trustees and assistant trustees provided for in the act that created that corporation, who shall hold office for two years, and shall each give bond in an amount to be fixed by the secretary of the interior. Such property and assets in excess of the debts and lawful claims established by the court shall escheat to the United States and shall be used by the secretary of the interior under direction of the president for the benefit of the common schools of the territory.

All existing election districts in the territory are abolished, and it is made the duty of the governor, the territorial secretary and the United States judges of the territory to redistrict the territory so as to secure equal representation of the people. None but properly qualified citizens of the United States are entitled to vote in the territory.

The bill declares vacant the office of territorial superintendent of district schools and vests the power of appointment of such official in the supreme court.

It provides the penalty for the crime of adultery to be imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding three years.

The right of dower to widows is secured by provisions similar to the dower law of the state of New York. The bill now goes to the house.

AN OREGON ENOCH ARDEN.

The Strange Tale of Thompson Walling's Return to His Old Home in Indiana.

MUNCIE, Ind., June 18.—This city and county is in great excitement over the return of Thompson Walling, formerly a resident of this city, but for more than [illegible] years supposed to have been dead. Mrs. Walling, whom he left a young wife with three children, has been married twice and has lost both husbands, and the first husband and wife met last night for the first time since 1849. Eighteen years prior to that time Thompson Walling married Susan [illegible], a daughter of a prominent farmer. In 1849, when the gold fever was at its height, Walling left with a number of prominent citizens, one of whom was Charles MacLaughlin, the California millionaire who was recently shot in San Francisco. From 1852 no word was received from him, and after [illegible] years passed he was given up for dead. His father's large estate was administered as if such were the case, and Mrs. Walling remarried to Horace W. Willcoxen in 1862. In 1863 Willcoxen was killed in a sawmill, and in 1864 Jeremiah Fesch married the twice desolate widow, living with her at Springport, Henry county, until his death in 1881.

FOUND AT WEATHERBY, OREGON

In the meantime Volney Wilson, a prominent citizen and a stanch friend of Walling, never gave him up, but flooded the west with letters of inquiry. In February last Walling, then deputy postmaster at Weatherby, Oregon, under a postmaster who himself had been absent from his family for twenty years, picked up a letter post marked Muncie and directed to the postmaster, and opening it found it was an inquiry for him. Correspondence with Wilson resulted, and yesterday Walling returned and [illegible] meeting with the wife of thirty-five years ago. The meeting was a sad and impressive one. The passing years and troubles have marked both with gray hair and wrinkles, while children who were little babies when their father left have grown men and women with families of their own. It is more than likely that a remarriage will close this romantic episode, which is even more strange than that of Enoch Arden.

A Compliment to the West

NEW YORK, June 18.—[Special.]—Lord Ronald Gower arrived yesterday from San Francisco. He said: "Nothing interested and astonished me more than the life of the western people. They seem to be more alive than any other people I have ever come in contact with, and they live in the present most vividly and emphatically. Every nerve and feeling seem stirring [illegible] the business or [illegible] of the passing hour. They are very different [illegible] yet New York [illegible] have taken [illegible] and enterprise of the west. One of the Swarts Murderers Convicted.

SALEM, June 18.—[Special.]—The trial of the negro Joseph Drake, charged with complicity in the murder of Daniel Swarts a few weeks since, was brought up in the circuit court yesterday, the state being represented by Hon. W. H. Holmes, prosecuting attorney, assisted by Hon. W. G. Piper, the defense being in the hands of Messrs. Ford and Kaiser. The arguments were closed at a late hour last evening, and the charge to the jury was delivered this morning, and it at once retired. The testimony introduced by the prosecution was simply corroborative of that given before the committing magistrate and of the confession made by the man Henry, one of the parties under indictment, and no new points were introduced of any great importance. The defendant testified in his own behalf and denied the truth of Henry's confession. To-night the jury returned a verdict of murder in the first degree. Mrs. Swarts, wife of the murdered man, is now on trial charged with the same crime.

Criminal Carelessness

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—[Special.]—Medical inspection of arriving vessels always more or less a matter of mere form, is particularly farcical with respect to vessels arriving from China. To properly inspect the several hundred Chinamen after a month's voyage in narrow and dirty quarters would be a tedious and unsavory job, and the port physician has usually, while holding his nose, taken a brief general glance about and permitted the passengers to land. So careless was the inspection of the Tokio [illegible] Sunday [illegible] till 500 of her 1100 passengers had gone ashore and dispersed in Chinatown, [illegible] discovered that small pox had been raging between decks. UTAH

A Red-hot Railroad Trial

SALT LAKE, June 18.—When Lovejoy succeeded Palmer as president of the Denver and Rio Grande, the Denver and Rio Grande Western, which [illegible] under another name and company the Utah branches of the Denver and Rio Grande property, Messrs. Palmer and Dodge fell back on their ownership of the Utah lines, they having the majority of the stock of the latter company. The Denver and Rio Grande had a lease of the Utah lines, which the Palmer and Dodge interest declare was broken by the non-fulfillment of stipulated agreements, so they refused to be ousted from the control and management of the Utah branches, and obtained a temporary injunction in the third district court here restraining the Lovejoy interest from interfering with them. The hearing on the motion to make the injunction permanent began here to-day, with a formidable array of counsel on both sides. There is a complaint and answer and a cross complaint and cross answer, all of tremendous length. The Palmer-Dodge crowd swear the lease was broken because of a failure to pay over the 40 per cent of the gross earnings called for therein, to which the Lovejoy party reply that the Utah lines did not earn expenses, to say nothing about the lease and lease charges, and to this Dodge rejoins that this was because of the freight war cuts that were directed by the Denver and Rio Grande management. It will be a long and bitter fight and will bring out the full history of the Denver and Rio Grande construction and rolling stock contracts and other inside matters which have caused much talk. The day was consumed in reading affidavits.

HARVARD DEFEATS COLUMBIA

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 18.—There was very little local interest taken in the Harvard-Columbia race. Harvard was expected to be winner, and crossed the line just eight seconds before Columbia. It was a poor race all through, but Harvard had the heaviest crew. Harvard's time was 24:22.

HAMM DEFEATED

BOSTON, June 18.—Hosmer defeated Hamm in a three-mile race with three turns at Point of Pines yesterday afternoon by a little over two lengths, in 21 minutes and 41 seconds. The race was for $500 a side and an added purse of $600. There were about 5000 spectators.

BICYCLE TOURNAMENT

THE FIRE RECORD.

TWO MEN BURNED TO DEATH

LEADVILLE, Colo., June 18.—About 2 this morning the [illegible] theater was discovered on fire. In an incredibly short time flames enveloped the whole building and spread to three or four smaller buildings adjoining, all of which burned to the ground. Firemen E. W. Mallory and Charles Sawyer were struck by a falling wall. Sawyer was rescued, but will probably die from injuries received. Mallory perished in the flames. His cries were heartrending. A miner named McCune was also struck by a falling wall and perished. Both bodies were recovered about noon. The theater was a three-story brick, located on State street. The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary, as the building had been vacant for some months. The loss is estimated at $50,000, insurance light.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

ATHENS, Penn., June 18.—This town was visited to-day by the largest fire ever known. It started in the Novelty furniture works of Hall & Lyon, spreading to the coal yard of Ralph Tozer. The grain depot of J. D. McAfee and a number of other buildings were destroyed, also a large amount of lumber was consumed. John Simons, H. T. Brigham and Charles Ordway, employes of the furniture works, were seriously injured, and many others more or less hurt by jumping from the burning buildings. Several hundred men are thrown out of employment by the fire. The loss will reach $102,000; partially insured.

Fleming Brothers:

It affords me pleasure to assure you that after taking Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills for more than twenty years in my family, that I regard them as being superior to any I have ever used or have seen used. I have not had them constantly and had to try others, and I have tried a good variety, but I have never had any to act so promptly, profitably and nicely as McLane's. I have used them on myself, wife and children with the most gratifying results.

For children, having used them on my own with such easy and happy effect, I would recommend them to one and all. These pills do the work—do it promptly, do it well, and leave no ill effects behind.

As a bile remover, as a liver corrector, as a forerunner preparing the system for quinine, there is no pill or medicine equal to Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills. I expect to use them as long as I live, if they continue as good as they have been in the past.

Yours truly,
E. H. GILES,

BUTLERIAN SAGACITY

General Butler had a field day in the newspapers yesterday. He not only accepted a nomination for the presidency for himself, and glowingly painted his own platform green but he gave a brief history of the late war, complimented the late General Jackson and had himself interviewed. Butler may live a long time and yet never see such another rare day in June or any other month. His letter of acceptance will satisfy one of the parties that has already nominated him, and his interview squints toward the possible necessity of having to write another letter. As a political capitalist his ambition seems to be to run a transcontinental party, an improvement party and a narrow gauge party and be president of each political company in the combination while he makes one help the other until the voters hardly know which they originally bought into. There are fifty millions of people in the country and only one Butler. It may be that one is enough. However that may be this one is making himself go as far as possible, and doing as much as he can in every way to impress himself upon the other forty-nine millions and odd.

He says Blaine is a great man and expresses his doubts as to the ability of any candidate to carry New York again him. He also tells the democrats (as though the fact were not worrying them enough already) that success at the coming election is an indispensable necessity. He believes that with the republicans four years in power under Blaine they will be so intrenched that they cannot be overthrown except by some new party. Here Butler might uncover his wares and ask 'which one of my parties will you take?' but he does not, he leaves that part of the interview to read between the lines, or perhaps to be read in some other lines to be given to the country at a later date in case he is not kept too busy accepting nominations.

There is nothing disagreeable about his intrenchment theory. In fact it is very comfortable to see that the republican party is to be intrenched and to 'hold its power upon the nation' until some new one gets strong enough to overthrow it. The new party will have to be a pretty good one and a very strong one to do this. The republican party has been so strong and so good that for a long time it has been preferred to any of those represented by General Butler. There is nothing in the field now that can compare with it in general and specific points of excellence. Wherever it fails to please the most fastidious, there can be no remedy found in any of the other parties and this is what we want to impress upon the independents—the wisdom of waiting for a new and better party rather than try to drive a very good one out of the trenches in order to let a very bad one in for a generation or more.

General Butler explains that under Blaine the party will have 'bold and daring leadership, great patronage, large resources, and the agile policy of the man who has shown more political sagacity and who, by his unaided efforts, has wielded more political power than any other man of the present generation.' As if from this man of so great political sagacity the items remain for any other party in power. The patronage resources etc, described by the great statesman afflicted with three political parties and hereditary strabismus, are all there for any party. The layout is an unvarying one, and all either of Mr Butler's parties requires is to get up a reputation good enough to inspire the same degree of confidence which the republican party now enjoys at the hands of the people. We agree with his great double bareback rider that it will take a new party to "overthrow" the republicans even now, without waiting for four years more of power. It comes from the Arthur administration much stronger than it was four years ago, and Mr Blaine, this man of political sagacity is by no means unaware of the things expected by the best people of his party at his hands. When a man has achieved the topmost round of the ladder by such climbing as Mr Blaine has done he does not kick the support from under himself. The party will not suffer at his hands, even though he is but half as sagacious as the Butler interview admits.

But the wily man of many parties did not praise Mr Blaine as a matter of political compliment or mere idle talk. He wanted to emphasize the idea that the contest will be a very severe one, and he wanted to call attention to the fact that New York will be the battle ground. Cleveland is the man he is after. He sees the turn of Tilden sentiment towards Cleveland, since the Old Man's latest annual statement of inability, and he wants to stop that sort of thing at once. He is evidently inimical to the plans of the Cleveland managers, and Cleveland can now say of the Butler crowd as the man in Emory Storrs's story said after his return from the Black Hawk war, when asked about a certain retreat. "I saw the gentlemen ride up to the brow of a hill," said he. "They were gentlemen without hats, I don't know who they were, but I knew d—d well they were no friends of mine!" Governor Cleveland, when he reads the statement that "the republicans who voted for Cleveland in 1882 will now go back to Blaine" will know that Butler is no friend of his. This state of affairs must be very annoying to the democrats, as it further complicates the situation. They cannot hope to succeed without the Cleveland strength in New York, whatever that may be and it is difficult to see how they can possibly hope to succeed without the assistance of Butler and his friends.

General Butler has probably discovered—though he does not say so—that the nomination of Mr Blaine has depleted the ranks of his labor party, and he is looking for a force to which he can bring the Ragged Reubens of that political organization, who care more for sticking to Butler than they do for coming under the banners of a leader whose party can do them some real good. The best part of the labor party is well satisfied with Mr Blaine and also well aware that votes for him will not be thrown away.

There are more conventions and political meetings coming along one after another in rapid succession now, and before the end of it all Butler may get an opportunity to write another letter.

Hon Heister Clymer of Reading, Pa who died on the 12th, has been a prominent democratic politician in Pennsylvania for twenty-five years and it must be a great surprise to the many who knew him to read the dispatch of yesterday, in which the statement is made that he poisoned himself on account of financial troubles. He was in congress from 1872 to 1876 and was prominent in the Belknap exposure in 1874. He was the democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania when Geary was elected, and made a vigorous canvass of the state. He was a good speaker and a thorough politician having risen by gradual steps from the management of town affairs through the legislature to congress.

Alabama votes on Aug 4 for governor and state officers. Tennessee follows on Aug 17, Arkansas September 1 and Vermont one day later. Then comes the most significant election in Maine on September 8, with an interesting incidental vote on the constitutional prohibition of the liquor traffic. Georgia will elect a governor on October 1. On October 14 Ohio and West Virginia elections occur, the political interest of the series culminating in Ohio, where 21 congressmen will be chosen and minor state offices hotly contested.

After a few days of reflection the Inter Ocean has decided that the independents must be placated. "If the republican party," it says, "is to win, it must be through the co-operation of all the elements, and it is for the victorious element to cultivate harmony." Even the veriest cranks in journalism ought to know enough to know this much."

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE ON DIVORCE

The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which recently closed its session at Philadelphia took occasion to deprecate the frequency of divorce, and petitioned congress in favor of a uniform law on the subject recognizing adultery as the only lawful ground of such separations. This ground will be in future, the only one recognized by the Methodist church and its ministers will not be permitted to remarry divorced persons unless they have been the victims of conjugal infidelity. Such decided measures on the part of the most numerous body of Protestant Christians in this country show the extent of the revolt against the lax and incongruous divorce laws of our several states. But like most reactions against long standing abuses it goes too far in the opposite direction, thus furnishing another illustration of John Stuart Mill's oft quoted sentiment, that in revolutions of opinion one part of the truth usually sets while another rises.

In his celebrated Confessions, St Augustine tells us that it was 'a marvel' among the matrons of Carthage that his mother the wise and devout Monica never bore any traces of blows received from her husband, and he commends her for obeying his licentious and choleric father, 'although she was the better of the two.' Monica herself, was accustomed to say to her neighbor's wives who 'bore even in their faces the marks of blows' that from the time they heard the marriage writings read to them they should account them as indentures whereby they were made servants, and so remembering their condition, ought not to set themselves up against their lords.' In the condition of society here indicated, when wife beating appears to have been the rule rather than the exception, the general recognition of a wife's claim to conjugal fidelity would mark a vast stride in advancing civilization. The woman who has any absolute claim upon her husband which he is bound under penalties to respect is not merely a creature with duties; she has at least one right, and to that extent she is something more than a slave to be commanded and a beast to be beaten. But is this one right the only one to which the wife is justly entitled? Is infidelity a more reasonable ground for divorce than habitual drunkenness or intolerable severity? If the members of the Methodist conference had been of the physically weaker sex or being of the stronger had yet had the kindly insight to realize what it must be to a woman to live in constant bodily terror of a powerful monster who at any hour of the day or night may intrude upon her the terror of his presence they would have seen that while infidelity is the worst evil which husbands experience it is by no means the worst which wives can suffer and their conception of what constitutes a just ground for divorce would unquestionably have been enlarged. But it is a true saying that the tall tree makes the squirrel sassy and it is not only in Webster's spelling book that it makes a difference whose ox is gored. It is not too much to say that if our Methodist brethren had had the experience of a single day with a drunken and brutal wife twice as strong as themselves who knocked things sky high and left the marks of her fists upon their faces a complete and salutary revolution would have taken place in their views on the divorce question. 'A man to be greatly good' said the poet Shelley 'must imagine intensely and comprehensively, he must put himself in the place of another and of many others, the pains and pleasures of his species must become his own.' A juster sentiment was never expressed and the fact that the members of the late conference did not put themselves in the place of a woman, nor make her pains their own shows that with all their goodness they were not 'greatly good.'

It was not during the reign of Semiramis as might be supposed but of Queen Victoria that a similar lack on the part of the law makers of sympathy for women and justice toward them made it almost impossible to secure the passage of the custody of infants bill. The object of this act, in the language of Justin McCarthy was 'to obtain for mothers of irreproachable conduct who through no fault of theirs, were living apart from their husbands occasional access to their children with the permission and under the control of the equity judges.' 'It is curious to note,' continues the author of 'A History of Our Own Times' 'how long and how fiercely this modest measure of recognition for what may almost be called the natural rights of a wife and a mother was disputed in parliament, or at least in the house of lords.'

It is customary to bewail the increasing frequency of divorces as an evidence of the increasing laxity of morals, but it is a fact beyond all reasonable doubt that at no period of the world has conjugal fidelity been so generally practiced as now. Before the war it was the boast of the southern states that divorces were almost unknown among them, that they were an abomination peculiar to the north. But no one believes that the comparative infrequency of divorces in the south was owing to the corresponding infrequency of adultery there. It was rather due to the exceeding commonness of the sin which blunted the sense of its enormity in the sex which almost exclusively suffered from it and to the public sentiment which reduced the woman who obtained a divorce for any cause whatever to the condition of a social pariah. Nor is the exceptional frequency of divorce in New England an evidence of the exceptional immorality of that section. It is a testimony rather to the moral independence of its women and to the enlightened public sentiment which sustains them in it. In part too, it is probably attributable to the great excess of females in New England which makes suitable marriages so difficult that unsuitable ones are more frequently formed than where the numerical equality of the sexes gives to the women a more extended choice.

What is needed is a reform not a revolution in our divorce laws or rather in place of our heterogeneous state laws on the subject we need a national law, as demanded by the conference so that a change of residence from one state to another will not involve a change in the matrimonial state. Under such a national law it should be impossible to sunder the marriage tie without the full and timely knowledge of both parties, nor should mere incompatibility of temperament be included among the legal grounds of divorce. Marriage is so solemn an ordinance that it should be neither lightly contracted nor lightly sundered. Upon the sacredness with which it is regarded depends not only the purity of the family, but the stability of the state and, so-called incompatibility of temperament unless expressed in ways which involve bodily danger or moral degradation affords no just ground for rupturing a relation voluntarily assumed for life.

Mr Blaine is the first presidential candidate from New England since the days of Franklin Pierce. In 1852 the East had two men in the field both citizens of New Hampshire, Pierce and John P Hale. The latter was run by the Free Soilers. He carried no states and received only 150 000 votes, as against 1 386 000 for Gen Scott and 1 601 000 for Mr Pierce. Four years later the Republican party inheriting the Free Soil traditions, gave Fremont eleven states and almost as many popular votes as Scott received in '52. The two Adamses were New England presidents before Pierce.

Portland is one day earlier with all eastern mails than she would have been had the democratic house had its way and cut off the appropriation for fast mails. The measure was barely secured in a conference committee.

The pet name of our candidate for the Vice-Presidency should not be written Black Jack, says the Wilkesbarre Record, as newspapers have it, but Blackjack, that being the name of the toughest and gnarliest kind of an oak growing in the Western country. When the secessionists of the Southwest came in contact with Colonel Logan, during the early days of the war of the rebellion they pronounced him the blackjack Federal officer of volunteers because he was so tough a customer to deal with. The democracy will find him a blackjack candidate even to this day.

It is stated that at the outset the Illinois men beat all the others at Chicago in making trades and securing votes.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

Washington Territory

Sound steamboat men at [illegible] make complaint that the Indians thereabouts are seriously obstructing navigation by placing fish traps in the streams. One of these traps has been located in the slough near the small pass known as the Hole in the Wall right in the course of passing steamers. Wherever these traps are put in sand bars quickly form and thus the channel becomes obstructed, making it very difficult for large steamers to get through except upon high water. It is asserted that many of the bars in the sloughs have been formed in this way. This thing should be stopped at once. It is a direct violation of United States law, and a heavy penalty attaches to persons who obstruct navigable streams. We call the attention of Indian Agent Buckley and Sub Agent Baldwin to this matter.

The editor of the La Conner Exchange learns from a private letter received by Dr H P Downs from Hon J Kincaid of Birdsville that there is a possibility that trouble may occur between the surveyors and the hostile Indians on the Sauk river, in which event it may become necessary to make some move to aid Indians through the agency of Winchester rifles and things. During the past week or two we have observed that a number of Swinomish reservation Indians (who were reputed to be one of the meanest tribes on the Sound) have been moving off mysteriously to what point or for what purpose we know not. Mr Kincaid writes as follows: "Sheets is surveying and so his township and the Indians threaten to stop the survey. Twenty three canoes went up a week ago and there are now twenty five Siwash at Indians here from east of the mountains, but I think it is a game of bluff."

The following additional particulars of the train disaster near Palouse Junction are obtained from the Walla Walla Union. It appears that the train consisted of several box and flat cars and three emigrant sleepers attached to the rear end of the train. Immediately in the rear of the locomotive were the flat cars loaded with cordwood. While the train was traveling at a high rate of speed the posts which held the wood on the first flat car gave way, precipitating the wood on the track between the car and locomotive tender. This threw and wrecked nine open flat and box cars the most of which are beyond repair. Before the train was fully stopped it had moved on for a mile or more, but in so doing became detached from several box cars and the immigrant sleepers which fortunate part of the accident saved the lives of many men women and children who chanced to be on the train. Only six men were found stowed away in one of the box cars, which happened to have received most of the damage. One of the men was killed outright while his companion was so smashed up that he died shortly after. The third sustained fractures of the thigh and shoulder, besides other cuts and bruises while the fourth man was badly used up but not seriously injured. The men were placed on board the eastern bound passenger and taken to Spokane Falls where the dead will be buried and the wounded properly cared for. One of the wounded men says that they were from the Coeur d'Alene mines and as they had no means with which to pay their passage they stowed themselves away in the box car hoping by that means to reach Portland.

A correspondent of the Marlboro Mass Times boastfully recalls that he and William Maxwell Evarts and Henry Ward Beecher were Boston school boys together and more than insinuates that Harry Ward was an exceedingly tough boy.

The Scientific American maintains that the great manufacturing establishments do not by any means monopolize the best workmen many of whom prefer the comparative ascendency and independence which they enjoy in "the little shops."

In the past thirty two years 261 families of the marquises and earls embracing [illegible] persons and filling 82 8 offices have obtained from the British taxes under the Marlborough pension [illegible] just been commuted the sum of £86 247 [illegible]

Just after my admission to the bar [illegible] as a client a rich old man, said Wayne MacVeagh in a Philadelphia court on Saturday. I felt flattered, naturally. I thought that he had selected me for my legal acumen. Fancy how much my soul was pained by the reception of a note from him saying: My dear young man be kind enough to go out and select for me a few bunches of purple headed asparagus and charge to professional services.

General Grant's recent difficulties have encouraged a newspaper correspondent to inquire into the lives of the various presidents after their retirement from office. Washington he finds went to Mount Vernon and raised tobacco and Jefferson, Madison and Monroe followed his example at their homes. John Adams returned to Quincy and raised corn and cabbages. Jackson returned to the Hermitage. Van Buren went to his Kinderhook farm. Polk died a few months after returning to Tennessee. Fillmore re-entered his old law office at Buffalo. Buchanan pursued agriculture at Wheatland. Hayes lives on his Ohio farm.

What the Lords of Industry are Doing

The North American Review

On the theory of "too much of everything" our industries, from railroads to working men, are being organized to prevent milk, nails, lumber, freights, labor, soothing syrup and all those other things from becoming too cheap. The majority have never yet been able to buy enough of anything. The minority have too much of everything to sell. Seeing no social trouble germinate last in such conditions, society is letting these combinations become institutions without compelling them to adjust their charges to the cost of production, which used to be the universal rule of price. Our laws and commissions to regulate the railroads are but oddling steps in a path which we need to walk like men. The change from competition to combination is nothing less than one of those revolutions which march through history with giant strides. It is not likely that this revolution will go backward. Nothing goes backward in this country except reform. When Stephenson said of railroads that where combination was possible competition was impossible he was unconsciously declaring the law of all industry. Man the only animal which forgets, has already in a century or two forgotten that the freedom, the independence of his group, of the state and even of the family which he has enjoyed for a brief interval have been unknown in most of the history of our race and in all the history of most races. The livery companies of London with their gloomy individualism, their wealth, their gluttony and wine bibbing, their wretched Irish estates exist to-day as reminders to us of a time when the entire industry of Europe was regimented into organizations, a history at first afterward adopted by law which did what our pools of railroads, laborers, manufacturers, and others are trying to do. Not only prices but manners were pooled. "The notion," says Cliffe Leslie, "that every man had a right to settle where he liked to carry on any occupation he thought fit, and in whatever manner he chose, to demand the highest price he could get, or on the contrary to offer lower terms than anyone else, to make the largest profit possible, and to compete with other traders without restraint was absolutely contrary to the spirit of the ages that preceded ours." This system existed for centuries. It is so unlike our own that the contemplation of it may well shake us out of our conceit that the transitions, displacements, changes, upheavals, struggles, exterminations—from Indians to sewing women—of the last 250 years were the normal condition of the race.

Geology Exploding a Tradition

Recently an Irish member of the house of commons complained that the public notice attached to the coronation chair in Westminster Abbey had been altered by the omission of all reference to the old legend that the coronation stone was first used in crowning the Irish kings, whereupon an explanation written by Dean Bradley was offered. Many years ago an inscription in Latin was attached to it stating that the stone was the pillow on which Jacob rested his head at Bethel, and the legend went on to say that it was carried from Palestine to Egypt, and thence to Spain. From Spain it was said to have been conveyed to the hill of Tara in Ireland. In 1851 in order to meet the convenience of the visitors of the Great Exhibition the head guide wrote on a label a notice to the effect that the stone had been used at the coronation of the ancient kings of Scotland and Ireland but omitted all reference to the legend relating to Jacob's pillow while retaining the closing part referring to Ireland. The label having become musty and dirty the guide who is a man of considerable antiquarian knowledge, turned it over recently and on the back wrote simply the historical fact with regard to Scotland and ignored the legend entirely. Dean Bradley adds that geologists have conclusively shown that the chair is of Scotch limestone and that no stone of the kind is to be found in Palestine or Egypt.

A Horrible Death

Plumas National

One day last week a man named S S Sherman who lives on the divide between [illegible] creek and the head of Nelson creek went to Quincy, Plumas county and reported to the officers that he had found the remains of a dead man in his cabin. Sherman mines in that section in the summer season and leaves during the winter. A short time since he went to his cabin after an absence of some months, and found the remains of a man, but in such a condition that it would be next to impossible to identify him. It is thought that he must have reached the cabin during the snow season, and then perished. The rats had been at their ghastly business, and the remains were in a horrible condition. Justice Washington, of La Porte, was notified and attempted to go to the man's cabin, but the snow was too much for him, and Mr Sherman then came back to Quincy. He was instructed to go back and bury the remains, after searching thoroughly for anything by which he could be identified. It is possible this may throw some light on the mystery.

ANOTHER VICTIM.—An old man named Cameron hailing from British Columbia, was yesterday roped in by the newly arrived gang of confidence men and relieved of $100 which he put up in the hope of winning a prize of $1000. He told of his loss to a friend who advised him to go and sin no more. The police were not appealed to. There are six thieves in this new gang and their office is behind frosted windows on the westside of First street, between Oak and Pine. They are shrewd enough so to conduct their robberies as not to lay themselves liable to conviction for grand larceny. Since the completion of the Northern Pacific far too large a number of these swindlers have come here to work the town. Unlike professional gamblers they are too cowardly to risk their money in chance against the money of others. They just steal. It would not be a bad plan to teach these rogues that they are not wanted in Portland and this sentiment ought to be expressed in language that may be understood by their brethren who have longings for the coast. They ought to be advised of the feelings of this community, so they can fully understand it. If in no other way they ought to be impressed by being tossed from a convenient dock into the Willamette. In the present high stage of water they would not have far to fall.

SUICIDE OF A CHINESE WOMAN.—Tuesday morning Sing Gum a Chinese woman living on Second street near Taylor took opium with suicidal intent and died from the effects early yesterday morning. She was a recent importation from San Francisco where a man had bought her for his wife. Often she expressed a desire to return to San Francisco but this her husband refused. Preferring death to living in Portland she sought to express such preference. After she had swallowed the drug a Chinese physician was called and fooled around with her until late at night when the husband called Dr Saylor who pronounced the case hopeless. The husband however insisted on the use of the stomach pump and his demands were obeyed. Yesterday the case was reported to the police by a Chinaman who stated that the woman had been murdered. The police took charge of the house and submitted the matter to Coroner Cooke. Upon Dr Saylor's statement of the cause of the death the coroner decided not to hold an inquest.

AN INTELLIGENT HORSE.—The horse employed in working the elevators for hoisting brick and mortar to the upper story of Corbett's building corner of Third and Morrison streets attends to his work without the supervision of a driver. At the sound of the bell rung by the man who has nothing to do but put the hods on the elevators the fellows above doing all the work the sagacious horse starts off and having raised the elevator to the proper height stops, turns carefully around, taking great pains not to get his legs over the tugs and waits patiently for the sound of the bell when he marches steadily back till the elevators have changed their positions when he stops and again turns carefully around. The work is not hard and the knowing brute which is of a strawberry blonde color seems to enjoy it as much as his owner does watching him.

THE ALAMEDA'S CARGO.—The American ship Alameda dropped down yesterday to the gas company's dock where she is discharging 550 tons of iron mains for the water company. These were loaded on trucks and conveyed to the southern part of the city. The new addition to the wharf makes the most convenient place along the river for the discharge of cargo of this sort. The slates and roofing paper mentioned a few days ago will be used for the Northern Pacific terminal company's shops in Albina. About $6 000 worth of machinery for the Willamette Iron works and a lot of miscellaneous merchandise will be discharged where she lies. The Alameda is a splendid specimen of American marine architecture being a fine model as strong as iron and wood can be fastened together and she is in fine order.

SERIOUSLY INJURED BY A FALL.—Yesterday afternoon Mrs Taylor wife of Captain G H Taylor living on the corner of Tenth and Washington streets fell from a ladder and broke her left leg in the hip joint. She had climbed by a ladder into a cherry tree to pick the fruit and was about twelve feet from the ground when she was overcome by dizziness and fell. She was also severely bruised about the face. Dr W H Saylor assisted by Dr Wells reduced the fracture. As Mrs Taylor is about 60 years old, it is likely that she will be crippled for life.

BORROWED A RING.—A Chinaman named Ah Wah was arrested last night by policeman Selby on a charge of larceny by bailee preferred by Mrs A Blumauer. It appears that Wah borrowed a diamond ring from Mrs Blumauer stating that he wished to have one made like it and would return it. This he failed to do and offered as excuse for his conduct that Mr Blumauer owed him $20. Judge Moreland will have to pass on the facts in the case.

THE BAKER CITY BRANCH.—Mr J B David of the Oregon Constitution Company is in the city. He reports that the Antelope tunnel will be finished by the first of July. Only six continuous miles of grading remains to be done to complete the grade to a junction with the Short Line. Besides these there are three or four large cuts on which the men are still engaged. Barring accident the entire line will be graded by September 1.

HARRY MORGAN ELECTED CHIEF.—The election for chief engineer of the fire department held yesterday resulted in the selection of Harry Morgan for that important position. The selection will be alike acceptable to property owners insurance companies and the men who are to serve under him. Mr Morgan knows how to fight fires and will guard the interests of the city zealously.

FENWICK WINS AGAIN.—A telegram was received last night from Brooklyn by Levi Knott announcing that Jim Renwick had won the one and one-eighth mile dash in 1 58¾. There were seven starters.

FIRE IN EAST PORTLAND

About 8 30 last evening smoke was seen issuing from the roof of John Fay's building on the corner of Water and L streets. An alarm was at once given by Pioneer's bell, the company promptly responding. Those who arrived at the engine house first found the heater and the engine cold and unprovided with fuel but they took it in this condition to the fire and it was just thirty five minutes before steam sufficient to throw a stream on the fire was obtained. Meantime Chief Engineer Jordan who happened to be at New Market theater was notified of the fire, and he with No 2's engine and a corps of firemen had crossed the river and got a good stream on the fire before the East Portland engine had sufficient steam to do effective work. The result of this delay was that the whole range of buildings from John Fay's saloon to the Golden Rule hotel building on L street were destroyed and also a stable at the rear of Fay's building on Water street. It is generally admitted that had steam been obtained in any reasonable length of time the Golden Rule hotel building at least could have been saved. The fire department however worked well and when steam was obtained two steady streams were kept on the fire for three hours and a half the engine behaving finely. The assistance rendered by the Portland department is also greatly appreciated and Chief Engineer Jordan is highly complimented for the interest shown by him and for the effective assistance rendered.

THE CAUSE

James Delaney who occupied the store adjoining Fay's saloon as a cigar store says he had closed up about ten or fifteen minutes when his attention was drawn to the smoke issuing from the building. He at once re-entered the store which he found filled with smoke and passing into the room at the rear of the store found the fire to be located in the vicinity of a shelf where he was in the habit of keeping matches but as to how the matches could have become ignited he could not furnish an explanation. The origin of the fire appears very mysterious if not suspicious.

LOSSES AND INSURANCE

The losses and insurance as far as could be ascertained are as follows

John Fay saloon loss about $25 0 insurance $10 0 on building, and stock in White & Riggen's agency

James Delaney cigars fruit etc loss on stock and furniture about $ 00 insurance $400 on stock in the Lion

James Grady saloon loss on stock through damage by fire and removal about $300 no insurance

The Golden Rule hotel building was owned by John Brown (colored) of Portland and was probably worth $ 500

The two story building adjoining was owned by Mr Beslan (also colored) of Portland and worth about $1000

Of these two buildings charred shells remain together with the foundations. Insurance could not be learned.

Mr E Clayson occupied the two last named buildings as lodging houses in connection with the East Portland hotel. He had about $1'00 worth of furniture on the premises a good proportion of which was saved by being carried out. He has a policy of $700 in the Western.

NOTES

A stream was also obtained from the hydrant on corner of Fourth and L streets in addition to those from the engines.

The condition in which the engine was found is explained by the fact that the engine had been out on a drill the night before and was being overhauled and that while going to the blaze the fire was jolted out of the engine.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

SEARS' MINORITY REPORT UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED

Proposition to Have a Permanent Fireboat—Policeman Buck Resigns—Charles Gritzmacher Appointed—The Oil Storing Ordinance—Pressing High Fire [illegible]

A regular meeting of the common council was held last evening, President Adams in the chair, Mayor Chapman being absent at Salem. All the councilmen were present at roll call except Haley and Scoggins. The minutes of the last meeting were upon motion considered read and approved.

The president appointed Charles Gritzmacher as a regular policeman in place of C D Lyons resigned and the appointment was unanimously confirmed.

PETITIONS, REMONSTRANCES, ETC

C B Cardinell J K Haseltine N J Gaston [illegible] Amanda Blossom [illegible] and Arthur Davenport petitioned the council for the improvement of S[illegible] street from the north line of Jefferson street to a point thirty feet north of the south line of West Salmon street by grading laying sidewalks and cross walks and by constructing a dry wall stone culvert in Tanner creek. The petition was referred to the committee on streets and public property.

H B Hastings a [illegible] of the Third ward asked that the council [illegible] $40 out of the salary of F D Love the poundmaster to pay for provisions sold to the latter. The petition concluded "In this you will not only be doing an act of justice but also of charity besides not letting him beat me out of money as he has many others in the Third ward and elsewhere in this city." Referred to the committee on health and police and chief of police.

Paquet & Smith asked an extension of time in which to complete their contract for improving the public levee as the condition of the river has been and now is such as to seriously interfere with the completion of the work. They state that they are ready to finish their contract so soon as the river shall recede sufficiently to allow them to do so. The petition was granted.

L L Burton and others asked that the proposed extension of the Stark street sewer be to the east side of Tenth street instead of to the west side. Referred to the committee on streets and public property.

The Northern Pacific Express Company claimed that their property had been excessively assessed by the city and asked that a reduction be made. As no vouchers were furnished, the communication was upon motion of Councilman Sears simply placed on file.

E A Jenne complained that his property lot 7 block 146 had been erroneously assessed, referred to the original county assessment as proof and asked that the proper correction be made. Referred to the committee on ways and means.

Thirty-three property owners possessing a total of 3050 lineal feet of land fronting on Hall street remonstrated against the improvement of that street as proposed in the notice recently given by the auditor and clerk. Referred to the committee on streets and public property.

The Northern Pacific Terminal Company and others remonstrated against the proposed improvement of North Front street from the south line of G street to the north line of Sherlock's addition. [The amount of property owned by the petitioners is about six sevenths of the entire property fronting upon the street which it was proposed to improve.] The petition was referred to the committee on streets and public property.

O D Buck resigned his position as policeman which was unanimously accepted.

Robert Bragg who claims that the city has infringed one of his patents again demanded payment therefor. The communication was referred to the committee on judiciary and the city attorney.

D O McKercher asked the council to reimburse him the sum of $3 6 which he has been obliged to pay for an assistant in the treasurer's office at various times and especially during the collection of the city's taxes when the amount of work was too great for one man to compass. The petition was referred to the committee on ways and means.

A communication was read from the board of fire commissioners which recommended that the council modify its existing contract with the Jefferson street ferry company so as to provide that they shall keep up steam in the boiler of the ferryboat Veto and have said fireboat and the city fire pump thereon ready for immediate service at any and all times together with sufficient hands to handle said fireboat provided the price for all such service shall not exceed the sum of $120 per month. The communication was referred to the committee on fire and water.

S Wilcox complained that Mayor Chapman had refused to sign a warrant for cleaning crosswalks until he should be paid $ which was owing him from G W Vollum from whom Wilcox had purchased the contract. The latter asked the council for relief.

Sears said he did not suppose the council had any power to compel the mayor to sign any warrant.

Gerdes thought the president of the council was empowered to sign warrants in the mayor's absence.

The president: I suppose Mr Wilcox can get his warrant signed if he will come around.

The communication was passed without any action being taken upon it.

REPORTS

The committee on ways and means reported in favor of reimbursing Alfred S Frank F L Wiston and W J Burns for taxes wrongfully collected from them.

The committee on fire and water having amended Gerdes' oil ordinance so that it reads "shall be unlawful to store oil within the city in greater quantities than forty five gallons in any one barrel case can or receptacle," recommended its passage. The report was adopted.

The committee on streets and public property ignoring the remonstrance of property owners against the proposed improvement of North First street recommended the carrying out of the work as already proposed and this report was adopted.

The committee on health and police exonerated Policeman O D Buck of all charges made against him but reported against paying him any salary for the time during which he was suspended pending the examination of the charges made against him. He having already resigned the report met with no objection and was adopted.

The viewers on the proposed extension of North Twenty first street, Thirteenth street, T street and H street made their reports assessing damages and estimating benefits to property owners. Reports referred to the committee on streets and public property.

Messrs Gerdes and Andrus two members of the special committee on dredger made the following report

To the Hon the Common Council of the City of Portland—GENTLEMEN: Your special committee on dredger to whom was referred the matter of investigating the management of the contracting for and the construction and acceptance of the city dredger and especially the conduct of Councilman W B Honeyman in connection therewith would respectfully report that they have examined a number of witnesses in relation to said matter and that while they fail to find any direct testimony showing collusion and corruption in the management of the construction of said dredger they must submit that the conduct of Councilman W B Honeyman who was a member of the dredger committee was very injudicious if not reprehensible in that only one day's notice was given of the letting of the contract for the construction of the machinery for said dredger during which immediately short time the plans for said vast amount of machinery were only to be seen at a distant part of the city in the office of the machine shops of the firm of Jno Honeyman & Co of which firm said Councilman W B Honeyman was and is as we believe the managing partner. We find also that the plans for said dredger were incomplete at the time of the inviting on such short notice of bids for said machinery thereby placing outside bidders at a great disadvantage in that the committee of which Councilman Honeyman was a member might have required any of the outside bidders to have furnished much more expensive machinery and material than was intended in the contemplation of said committee of which said Councilman Honeyman was a member. In view of such circumstances in connection with the arrangements for the construction of the city dredger all of which have a bad appearance in the public estimation and tend to bring the common council into bad repute your committee would earnestly recommend that the common council pass an ordinance prohibiting councilmen and other city officers from bidding upon receiving or being directly or indirectly interested in any contract work or other job let by the city.

We herewith present the testimony concerning the subject of investigation which was given before your committee and reduced to writing.

All of which is respectfully submitted

RICHARD GERDES

Special Committee on Dredger

PORTLAND June 18 1884

Before any action could be taken upon this piece of spitework by which they tried to throw an imputation upon the character of a man whose honest dealing had been clearly shown by the evidence brought out at the investigation, Councilman Sears offered the following minority report

To the Honorable the Mayor and the Common Council of the City of Portland.—The undersigned, representing a minority of your special committee on dredger, to whom was referred the examination of certain charges against the past management of the city dredger and more especially against Councilman W B Honeyman in connection therewith begs leave to report: That a full and complete examination of said charges has been made and the testimony of all witnesses taken who could be discovered calculated to throw any light upon the subject matter of the investigation which testimony is filed herewith and makes a part of this report and the result of such investigation and examination entirely clears Councilman Honeyman from the imputation of any dishonourable conduct which may have been cast upon him.

The contract for the construction of the machinery of the dredge was after proper advertising let to the firm of which he was a member as the lowest bidders. The work when performed was accepted by a committee of the common council of which he did not constitute a part and Councilman Honeyman's connection with the construction and equipment of the dredge has been such only as might have been sustained by any honorable business man in this community.

The undersigned therefore takes pleasure in recommending that all charges herein ore made against said W B Honeyman in any manner affecting his integrity honour or reputation for fair dealing be dismissed.

ALFRED F SEARS JR
Of the Special Committee on Dredger

Having finished the reading, Sears moved that his report be adopted in lieu of the majority report. The ayes and noes were called for and Councilmen Andrus and Gerdes voted in the negative. The majority report was accordingly pigeon holed without even the empty honor of being courteously received and placed on file. It is published above in order that people may see just whence all this opposition to Councilman Honeyman has come. The vote of the remainder of the council upon the above question is the best exoneration the gentleman could wish.

The auditor and clerk reported that he had canvassed the city vote cast at the city election and found Messrs F[illegible], Forbes and Holland elected councilmen and Mr M Kerr h[illegible] re-elected city treasurer.

Directing the city surveyor to lay out an extension of Porter street to the west line of Hood street

Councilman Gerdes offered the following: Resolved That no street improvement shall be undertaken except by the petition of persons representing one half the property abutting on the street proposed to be improved.

The meaning of this said Gerdes is that we won't improve any more streets unless the people want it.

He then asked for the ayes and nays upon his resolution as though there did not seem to be any opposition from any one. The vote was unanimous in favor of adopting.

Councilman Honeyman offered the following

WHEREAS The supreme court of the state having passed upon the legality of ordinance No 7?0 and the judgment of the lower court having been affirmed, and

WHEREAS There has been a large number of bonds, known as [illegible] brought by the city for the enforcement of [illegible] ordinance, and

WHEREAS Said cases having been again brought up before the supreme court for a rehearing, and

WHEREAS It has on such rehearing been again affirmed; therefore be it

Resolved That the city attorney is hereby instructed to take such action in pressing the several cases (commonly known as the whisky cases) now pending to recover either from the principals or their bondsmen the several sums due the city on such cases in the shortest time possible.

Gerdes said Mr President:—That resolution is not worth the paper it is written on. There are only two cases decided and there is no use in forcing this matter. You won't make anything by it. Every one of these cases will have to be tried in the state circuit court and then appealed to the supreme court and it will be a very long time before you can get any money—if you ever do.

Honeyman—It's nothing new to know that we can't get any money from whisky sellers. It was said sometime ago that all the men engaged in this business were gentlemen and if they were beaten they would pay up like men—

Here Gerdes interrupted and was very chillingly reminded by Honeyman that he had the floor. The latter continued: I would like to see a little of that manhood now.

Gerdes moved to refer the resolution to a committee but this was voted down.

Honeyman called for the yeas and nays on his motion to adopt.

Gerdes declared that it needed four members to call for the yeas and nays.

Sears—It is not necessary but I think we could get four members if we tried. A vote was then taken, all voting yes except Andrus who voted no. Gerdes voted yes with a great splurge.

The council then adjourned.

THE OPERA

A large and very fine audience greeted the second performance of De Vivo's Italian Opera Company. They were particularly demonstrative throughout the evening each member of the company being greeted enthusiastically, especially Mme Zeppilli and Signor Villani in the duet of La Favorita which was encored. Mme Godini sang deliciously and with true expression the ballad "Thou Art so Near and yet so Far" and to an encore gave "Coming Thro' the Rye" in a most bewitching manner. Signor Baldanza took the house by storm with the ballad "La Donna è Mobile" and was rapturously encored. Signor Bologna contributed to the entire satisfaction of the audience with his fine basso in the grand aria of Don Carlos. Of the second and third part which consisted of scenes from "The Barber of Seville," Madame Godini, Signor Baldanza and Signor Villani were particularly felicitous. Madame Godini making a most charming Rosina, rendering the florid music of Rossini and also portraying the wayward Ward to perfection. Signor Baldanza displayed great facility of execution showing that his throat is not entirely given to bringing forth those wonderful high C's but is full of agility as well. Signor Villani surprised us agreeably by his spirited and brilliant rendering of the active and artful barber, his fine baritone being just fitted for the part. The entire performance passed off with great eclat demonstrating conclusively that there is now in Portland a splendid combination of first class artists such as only De Vivo understands selecting. It is to be hoped that our community will show their appreciation by crowding the house the remainder of the week. Following is to night's programme

THE PIONEERS

SALEM June 1[illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

To day I had the pleasure of being present at the Pioneer reunion on the fair grounds at Salem. The day has been a lovely one but the attendance I am sorry to say was not large. I had the honor of walking in the procession behind the banner of 1849 borne by Mr Stevens. There never were many of us the glitter and glare of the California gold fields having attracted almost all the adventurers of that year and now there were only four present.

The principal address was delivered in the morning by H L Thompson of Portland and the occasional one in the afternoon by Mr F O McCown of Oregon City. They were both excellent and well received. Mr Thompson sketched rapidly the history of exploration on this coast and the contention of sovereigns and governments for its ownership and occupation and then showed how after all the problem was solved and the country saved to the American Union through its early occupation by the hardy and patriotic pioneer. The composition of this address was very fine and the delivery equally good.

The special subject of Mr McCown's address was the immigration of 1852. It occurred when he was only a lad of 13 and the incidents of his journey appear to have made a lasting impression on his mind. He traveled with his father and family across the plains from Kansas to Clackamas county where with scant means but stout hearts and willing hands they cleared the forest and laid the foundation of a moral thrifty and self-directing community. Mr McCown's address besides the well told tale of the journey across the continent abounded in shrewd observations and philosophic suggestions concerning men and things that showed him to be a reader and thinker as well as a pioneer.

Altogether I think the result fully justifies the change from the old to the young pioneer as Orator of the Day and that the addresses of 1884 will compare favorably with any that have preceded them.

And now I have a suggestion to make. Instead of this Camp fire—I came very near spelling it with a ph—let us have a dinner where we can tell stories and make speeches by gas light in a comfortable room instead of the smoke and gloom of a log heap which at least is only a lapse toward that barbarism from which some people say we have so lately emerged. A HALF VOTE.

[The half votes came from contesting delegates. There was a contest in the fifth Kentucky district and the convention by a compromise admitted four delegates where there could be but two votes. The delegates were on an equal footing so of course each had half a vote.—ED.]

ST. MARY'S ACADEMY COMMENCEMENT.

This academy is one of the best institutions of learning in the city of Portland and it has been patronized by an exceptionally large number of pupils during the scholastic year just closed. Some of our best citizens irrespective of creed place their daughters in St Mary's academy fully aware that they are there in charge of experienced teachers and moral instructors. An additional proof of this fact was placed on the record of that institution Tuesday by the faithful execution of the elaborate programme prepared for the annual commencement. The exhibition hall was tastefully and exquisitely decorated with festoons, draperies, mottoes and banners of various kinds and excellent styles. At 1 o'clock the hour appointed for the opening march of the exercises the hall was thronged to its full capacity standing room included. Among the large audience principally composed of the young maidens' parents, relatives and friends were noticed also the Catholic clergy of the city and several priests from neighboring towns. The stage presented a beautiful scene from the richness of its decorations and by the appearance of more than one hundred young performers on it all dressed in white. The perfect order that prevailed among them and the quiet modest and lady like deportment that characterized them throughout the entire entertainment were very noticeable. This particular feature speaks volumes in favor of the careful and truly moral training imparted to the young ladies by the kind Sisters of that institution. After all the young lady performers had taken their respective seats on the stage the programme heretofore published in these columns was carried out from the beginning to the end with an exactness and proficiency highly creditable to all concerned. The vocal and instrumental music was of a classical rank and was performed in a manner that would reflect credit on any master of that captivating art. The essays composed and read by the members of the graduating class were a perfect treat of thought, intelligence and feeling couched in chosen, elegant and rhetorical terms. The German and French exercises were also a success and the young pupils appeared to find no difficulty in pronouncing the words of those foreign languages. The allegorical drama "The Ransomed Captive" was well played in which the principal characters were creditably sustained by Misses M Murphy, E M D[illegible], G A Rice, Meda A Kutzschan and Anne [illegible] and in a final scene Miss F Allan sang a solo with great skill, clear soprano voice and much feeling. In the execution of this drama as well as in the various essays read by the ladies of the graduating class it was noticed that the science of elocution receives a due and proper attention in St Mary's academy. The pupils spoke and read with a remarkable precision accurately observing appropriate pauses and gestures rhetorical as well as grammatical pauses. They articulated every letter in a syllable and modulated their voices according to the established rules with a scrupulous and at the same time brilliant accuracy.

Towards the end of the exercises the diplomas and gold medals were conferred on four young ladies with the customary ceremonies. Rev J F Fierens conferred the honors on Miss Annie J Bowles of Vancouver, W T; Rev B Orth on Miss Georgia A Rice of Dany [illegible] Oregon; Rev L Verhaag on Ellen M Dunbar of Portland and Rev J Metayer on Miss Meda A Kutzschan of Portland. After this Miss R [illegible] the best of the class of 1885 congratulated the four graduates in a short but neat address to which Miss A J Bowles responded in graceful accents and in eloquent terms.

These entertaining exercises closed with a few congratulatory and encouraging remarks to the graduates by Hon John M Gearin of the Portland bar.

In a large room at the academy were displayed a number of paintings in oil and water colors, crayon drawings and flowers, wreaths etc in hair and wax made by the pupils of which the following is a list

Easter Morning, Winter Wren, Harp and satin fan case in water colors by Helen Dunbar. Mt Shasta and basket of flowers in water colors by Minnie Bowles; bouquet of rosebuds and pinks, bouquet of tulips and narcissus, tufts of violets, white flowers and humming bird and canary bird in water colors by Agnes Jackson; wax flowers and hair work by the same. Easter Morning in water colors by Leona Cochran; [illegible] leaves, morning glories and lilies in water colors by Cordelia J Jones. Lake Champlain in oil, Lake Horn, Multnomah Falls and winter scenery in oil by [illegible] Johnson. The Gam[illegible] drawn by Carrie Towne. Rooster [illegible] drawn by Dottie Ball. Coffin Rock drawn by [illegible] S[illegible] Clat[illegible] scene on the Columbia drawn by May Johnson; scene on the Columbia drawn by Eva Bonser; wreath of wild roses painted in water colors by Eva Bonser; Mt Hood painted in oil for Minnie Sunderland; water lilies painted in oil by Minnie Sunderland; Stag at Bay drawn by Minnie Sunderland; Winter Wren on Tambourine painted in oil by M Sunderland; wax fruit made by Gertie Irvine. The Cathedral Rocks and Spires drawn by Annie Smith. The Three Brothers drawn by Lotta O'Connor; scene on the Saco river painted in oil by M Sunderland.

In the same room are a great number of specimens of embroidery and needle work of various kinds comprising a number of children's garments trimmed with Inecedging etc all made by the pupils. One of the most practical features of the lot was a strip from each of the pupils on which was worked a dozen button holes. To be able to work a well finished button hole is a rare accomplishment now a-days.

NOTES FROM THOMPSON FALLS

THOMPSON FALLS M T June 1?

The wagon road from here to the mines is now owned by Hugh Kirkendall of Helena M T. Russell Smith & Co sold the road and ferry to the present owner for the sum of $4000. The ferry boat which was used at the third crossing of the Clark's Fork river at the time of constructing the Northern Pacific railroad has been brought down the river and is being rebuilt to take the place of the one that went over the falls. A new steel wire cable is being stretched across the river about 400 yards above the place of the former ferry crossing. Mr Douglass, Hugh Kirkendall's manager, informs me that a number of men will be put on the wagon road at once to complete it to Murray as soon as possible. Wagons have been running as far as the Mountain house about twenty miles all for some time. There still remains about eight miles of the road to be built. As soon as the wagon road is completed Gilmer & Salisbury will put on a line of stages from here to Murray and Eagle and Hugh Kirkland will put freight teams on the route. Freight will then be shipped in from here for about 3 cents. It is now taken in for 4½ c. The ferry boat breaking loose and going over the falls has not stopped travel any. Freight and passengers are crossed on row boats and sent to Murray and Eagle as before. The new ferry will be in running order this week. By the 10th of July it is expected to have a fair road completed from here to Eagle and the stage line established. A road between Raven and Eagle, the entire length of Prichard creek, was finished last week. The only piece remaining to be made is between the Mountain house and Raven—about eight miles.

THE "LITTLE TICKETS."

PORTLAND, OR June 17 1884

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Your paragraph to-day in criticism of the persons who printed "yes" tickets for the recent election prompts me to write not a defense for none is needed, but a brief statement of facts. What are known as the "little yes" tickets were printed from copy furnished by Joseph Simon chairman of the republican state central committee. The copy was brought to me by John F Ward chairman of the county committee who stated specifically that he desired the tickets to be short and compact so that they could not be easily scratched or altered with pasters. As regards the amendment there were three lines to be used. For constitutional amendment with "No," "Yes," or a blank space following. I informed Mr Ward of the suggestion of Judge Deady to a lady who asked his opinion, to-wit, that the amendment ought to appear as a part of the state ticket it being a state matter and Mr Ward at once accepted the suggestion. Thereupon three kinds of tickets were printed for each precinct—blank yes and no. These were the regular republican tickets and were correct in all particulars though it would have perhaps been better had the printer put the amendment line after the nominee for supreme judge instead of having it follow the candidate for prosecuting attorney. A day or two before the election I learned that Mr Simon had taken an order for tickets to another office. They were larger than the regular tickets and bore the amendment line at the bottom in the three styles mentioned above. The "No" tickets were used by the workers at the polls and all opponents of the amendment freely circulated the false statement that friends of the measure had printed bogus tickets. "Little blank" tickets were also in circulation and an abundance of "little no" tickets could have been had if opponents had not preferred to use those furnished by Mr Simon.

The democratic and the fusion managers printed their tickets with a blank after the amendment line. Friends of the measure printed them with "yes" in the blank space; opponents printed them with "no" in the blank.

Every man who opposes the amendment is disturbed for fear some illiterate voter threw a "yes" ballot but none of them have a word of criticism for those who printed "no" tickets though in some of the counties of the state—notably in two southern Oregon counties—regular party tickets (democratic) were all printed against the amendment. The case stands thus: Any work against the measure was all right; any effort to carry it was all wrong. However the upholders of representative government do not expect to be able to work to the satisfaction of opponents. They have done only what was right and proper and what they will do again in support of a measure of justice and equity.

W S DUNIWAY

It makes no difference who suggested or devised the style of these tickets. It was not right nor proper. The tickets should have been so printed that no voter would be likely to be deceived by them.

THE PROHIBITORY LAW IN IOWA

PORTLAND June 17

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In your issue of this morning I notice a reference to a supposed flaw in the prohibitory enactment of last winter in Iowa. Please permit me to say that at different times since the present law was enacted the friends of the saloon have thought they found a fatal error in the statute. Whenever some ingenious person thought he had found a flaw it was soon heralded and almost as promptly shown to be a false alarm.

Some of the most eminent lawyers of Iowa, among them the venerable Judge McHenry, were to my personal knowledge in daily consultation with the house committee which framed the bill of penalties. The bill was prepared with great care and with the exception of an occasional crumb of comfort found in a supposed but delusive evasion the law has been esteemed by foes as well as friends invulnerable and irresistible.

Permit me to say as I am just from that state and a witness of the stirring events of last winter when the illustrious fifty two members (just enough to carry) enacted the law which was an honest redemption of the pledge of the republican state convention and in harmony with the will of 30,000 majority of the voters of the state and am in position to know of the thoroughness of the organization of the state for the enforcement of the law when it shall come into effect on the 4th of July, that the law was skillfully and honestly framed and enacted and the people with growing strength and resolution intend to enforce it. In my own city (Clinton) of 1? 000 and on the river all the law and order people recently combined and elected a mayor and council men by 300 majority who are enforcing the law now in effect.

Large numbers of citizens who differed with us on the theory of dealing with the liquor traffic now that the law is enacted are determined that it shall be enforced.

J A WARD

East Portland certainly has the advantage of her big sister this week. The Wizard Oil singers gave their first open air concert Monday night. Last night they sang to an immense audience fully one third of which were the wives and daughters of leading citizens. The choruses and glees were beautifully rendered, every song being loudly applauded and the comedy of Sidney Burt is both refined and irresistibly funny. Every night this week.

There is great excitement at Belfast. The absence of decorations is generally remarked. On one building the union jack is at half mast. Another is suspended across the street through which Spencer passes, with the following words upon it: "Remember Newry and Rosslare." Four hundred extra police and a troop of lancers have arrived.

SALEM NOTES.

SALEM, June 18.

Gen. John F. Miller has returned to Salem after a long absence in southern Oregon.

Arrangements are being made for a grand parade to take place here on the coming Fourth in connection with the printer's picnic.

Hines the printer is in the city, accompanied by Mr. Lang, making arrangements for the publication of his historical review of the Willamette valley.

The pioneers' reunion closed its session last evening with a camp fire at the state fair grounds, which was largely attended and was the scene of many reminiscences of long ago.

The printers of Salem have secured the services of C. B. Carlisle, Esq., associate editor of the Standard, as orator of the day, and Prof. E. M. Waite will read the Declaration of Independence at the forthcoming celebration in this city. The occasion gives promise of being an immense success.

His excellency the governor has made the following executive appointments: Notaries public, J. L. Condon, The Dalles; H. C. Hoald, Otis valley; Chas. Nall, Wolf creek; R. M. Chrisinger, Pendleton; E. B. Purington, Drewe; W. W. Webber, Rye valley; H. A. Hubbell, Jacksonville; W. M. Colvig, Woodville; F. R. Strong, W. B. Otts, A. H. Tanner and T. B. White, Portland; J. W. Redford, Pettysville; I. Osborn, 140 Nassau street, New York city; J. J. Green, Alexandria, Va.; A. D. Hawley, 302 Walnut street, Philadelphia.

RECEPTION TO MRS. A. R. RIGGS.

For a few days past there have been whisperings of a good time coming, among the ladies of the W. C. T. U. of this city, the substance of which was publicly expressed in the hall occupied by this useful temperance organization last evening. At the hour appointed by the knowing ones quite a large gathering of the friends of Mrs. A. R. Riggs assembled at 8 P. M., bearing with them their gifts for the occasion. The tables were bountifully furnished and decorated with flowers. The object of the gathering was to give formal expression of the high esteem in which Mrs A. R. Riggs, the laborious president of the Portland W. C. T. U., is held by its membership. Mrs. Riggs was, by guile, brought into the hall and introduced to its happy occupants. An introductory song, "Together let us sweetly live," was sung. In a neat little congratulatory speech, Mrs. Chaplain Stubbs, on behalf of the ladies present, referred to the work of Mrs. Riggs in the cause of temperance, and expressed for the union their thorough appreciation of the work. Mrs. Riggs, with considerable emotion, responded to the address. It was manifestly a genuine surprise, and the lady was greatly affected by this unlooked-for and cordial expression of confidence and good will. Following a season of pleasant social intercourse and hand-shaking, interspersed with music, the company sat down to refreshments.

Mrs. Riggs sustains an enviable position among her fellow laborers in the temperance field, and will no doubt work with augmented zeal because of this public recognition.

LISZT AND THE AMERICANS.

Something about the Family that the Musician is in the Habit of Having Near Him.

Berlin Letter in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A summer with Liszt is the ambition of all young musicians, and they are fortunate indeed who come to be regarded as members of the "family" which the master expects annually in Weimar. Since he abandoned Rome as a winter residence, some four years ago, the Abbe has spent the cold season at Pesth, and he will now return to Weimar for the summer at an early day. His dislike of American pupils vanished summer before last, when a talented lady from Iowa joined his "family." Her industry, patience and thoroughness convinced him that there must be still other Americans of the same sort. In former years he had had disagreeable experiences with young American pianists who wanted to accomplish things too hurriedly and superficially, but Mrs. Lachmund quite warmed his heart toward her countrymen, and last summer he welcomed all Americans with marked kindness.

Mrs. Lachmund is a fine performer on the harp. Her husband, Carl V. Lachmund, who is well known to musicians throughout the United States, has been teaching and studying at Scharwenka's conservatory all winter. He is a finished pianist and a scholarly musician. He and his wife will go to Weimar as soon as Liszt's arrival is announced for their third summer of study with him. The abbe is very fond of them.

A Complete Wreck.

Boston Transcript.

"Is Mr. Tilden in?" asked the interviewer. Hardly had he got the words out of his mouth before Mr. Tilden, in a full suit of chain armor, leaped from the second floor landing with the remark, in a voice like thunder: "Here I am, young man! What's wanted?" The reporter managed to murmur something about "candidacy" and "convention," but before he could proceed further the sage turned a double back-somersault and informed the interviewer that he was out of politics. "May I ask who is your first choice?" asked the interviewer, timidly. "My first choice?" shouted Mr. Tilden, in his excitement wrenching three or four uprights from the stair-railing, "I have no first choice. The country, however, wants a strong man." And he struck the heavy oaken front door a tremendous blow, knocking it completely off the hinges. "However," he added, with a wink, "you understand?" The reporter understood, and he returned to the office and informed the world through the columns of his newspaper that Mr. Tilden was a "complete wreck."

Fighting the Pistol in Texas.

Fort Worth Gazette.

The bully who struts around with a pistol in his hip-pocket should be put on the same level with other violators of the law, and get the full penalty prescribed by law. If this is not done communities countenancing the offense must expect to be cursed with scenes of midnight brawls, bloodshed, loss of life, and general turbulency. At best, society is at a disadvantage when it undertakes to deal with such evils, and it has a right to expect that the constituted authorities, whether executive or legislative, will utilize every resource of law to suppress or regulate practices that are clearly pernicious in their tendencies, and whose results are to be counted, on the corpses of murdered men and homes where widows and orphans dwell.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

WEDNESDAY, June 18.

Trade in general is of a most quiet description, yet by no means slow. The produce movement is full for the season. The upper rivers are falling, and the effect has been felt here. All fear of high water is now past.

Overland receipts include 2 bbls currants, 150 cs cheese, 50 cs lye, 125 bbls oat meal, 200 cs syrup, 4 cs cigars, 56 pkgs tobacco, 284 kgs nails.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: 234 ctls wheat, 311 bbls flour, 638 ctls oats, 2441 lbs wool, 5376 lbs hides, 43 cs eggs, 50 bxs fruit, 13 pkgs butter. Also, 2461 ctls wheat, 118,216 lbs wool, 2151 lbs hides, from the eastern section.

WHEAT—There is not the least appearance of business as regards the local market, and last quotations are continued as nominal. Other markets are moving along slowly, furnishing no indication of early change.

FLOUR—The production is now small and only to meet local needs. Values are without change.

MILLSTUFF—Jobbers are fully supplied, yet reduced grinding will force a draw on stocks now at mills.

PROVISIONS—The Chicago markets are moving in a downward track after maintaining a steady front for several days. Local values are maintained with difficulty.

POTATOES—The market is not crowded, and last quotations are renewed.

DRIED FRUITS—Locally there is a fair movement, confined to the old stocks. Arrivals are small.

CHEESE—The market is freely supplied at old prices.

CHICKEN—Sales still slow and at yesterday's prices.

EGGS—Less coming forward and without an increase in receipts, values will improve.

Trade and Territory.

San Francisco Merchant.

San Francisco is feeling severely the loss of territory, the trade of which has hitherto been in its control. This with the loss of the business which the great prosperity of the Comstock formerly gave us, has reduced the volume of our jobbing trade in almost every branch of business. We can hardly expect ever to win back the trade of the southern country or that of Oregon: but had we had access by railroad to the latter, we would have held much of that business for years. What we have now to do is to cultivate the area of territory which remains to us, and make it more productive by increasing the number of consumers who must draw their supplies from this city. We have no doubt that within a year or two the jobbing business of this city will in the aggregate exceed anything in the past, and yet Los Angeles and Portland will retain their independence, and Virginia City count for as little as now. We are only going through a transition which other cities have experienced—an experience often repeated with the older ones. Buffalo once controlled nearly all the territory now tributary to Chicago, and much more. St. Louis also took trade from other cities in her youth, and is, like Chicago, now losing some of her extreme western and southwestern territory, because new distributing points are being established. But as the trade areas of such cities as Chicago and St. Louis may be slowly circumscribed, the population within that area will and is growing in a greater ratio. These cities will do more business than ever ten years hence, but they will do the larger portion of their business nearer home. It will be so with San Francisco; our inland distributing trade will be limited to the northern and central counties and the state of Nevada: but that trade will be much larger than the business we did before the opening of the Sunset route and when Oregon was as much our territory as San Joaquin county. Then, San Francisco has the ocean. There is a territory whose hidden wealth has hardly been prospected. We may hear a growl now and then because trade is dull on some days or weeks; but growls do no good, neither will scaling prices to meet the competition of rivals. Every man we bring into central California is a customer, who cannot be taken from us, and every effort should be made to encourage immigration of the agricultural classes, both farmers and laborers.

"Does your old wound hurt you much now?" asked a sympathetic friend of ex-Governor Oglesby. "Lord, bless you, no," replied uncle Dick, "except every four years when I want to run for office."

A story is told of a Philadelphia official who, on being handed a $50 bill as a bribe, coolly lit his cigar with it. The briber must have been a "young republican." An old republican would have dropped a $500 bill and walked off.

New York Star: A letter addressed to the Star over the signature of "Gail Hamilton" says: "If James is elected I shall reserve the Blue room in the White house for myself." Is this forgery, or who is Gail Hamilton anyhow?

A Chicago clergyman, who is not very particular as to ciphers, recently claimed that his city contained no less than 30,000 infamous women. The chief of police, on the other hand, can only count up less than 1,000. Some ministers have a bad habit of seeing too much evil in this world.

Rev. W. S. Thompson of New Ipswich, New Hampshire, in addition to being pastor of the Baptist church, is a farmer, teamster, dealer in wool, superintendent of schools, and tax collector, and until within a few days ago he belonged to the board of selectmen.

Dark complexions are all the style now, and if there is anything that makes a pretty belle envious it is to see a great homely coal heaver slinging black diamonds into the cellar, entirely oblivious of the perfectly elegant shade of his countenance.—Burlington Free Press.

An entire column in a New York paper of a few days ago was devoted to Yale college news. Most of the article referred to boating, and we were surprised to find three lines relative to studies. Men will soon go to colleges we fear, for the mere purpose of getting an education.

"Mark Twain" is a member of Rev. Mr. Twichell's church in Hartford, and so was the late ex-Governor Marshall Jewell. But the ex-governor was "higher up" in the church, as the humorist expressed it, and used to pass around the plate. One day Mark Twain said to the ex-governor: "See here, governor, they let you collect the donations, but they would never let me do it." "Oh, yes, they would," said the ex-governor, smiling, "that is, with a bell punch."

Cheap Telegraphy.

New York Herald.

The public has reason for congratulation that the Postal Telegraph Company has added to its system the lines and facilities of the bankers and merchants' company. Unlike the numerous absorptions of weaker rivals by the Western Union, this combination is made not to further a grasping monopoly, but to establish a wholesome competition and thereby to relieve the people of the burdens of monopoly exactions. The avowed purpose of the Postal Telegraph Company is to give the public an efficient service at reasonable rates, and its facilities for doing this are now largely increased by the addition just made.

JOSEPH SHANNON, an ex-sheriff of Blair county, Pa., who was elected by 1000 majority during the anti-Masonic agitation nearly fifty years ago, died at his home in Altoona on Sunday evening, aged nearly eighty years. A notable event during his occupancy of the sheriff's office was the hanging of the notorious Robert McConaughy, who murdered six of his relatives.

SPRING

Is the season in which bad or poisoned blood is most apt to show itself. Nature, at this juncture, needs something to assist it in throwing off the impurities which have collected by the sluggish circulation of the blood during the cold winter months. Swift's Specific is nature's great helper, as it is a purely vegetable alterative and tonic.

Rev. L. R. Paine, Macon, Ga., writes: "We have been using Swift's Specific at the orphans' home as a remedy for blood complaints, and as a general health tonic, and have had remarkable results from its use on the children and employes of the institution. It is such an excellent tonic, and keeps the blood so pure that the system is less liable to disease. It has cured some of our children of scrofula."

W. H. Gilbert, druggist, Albany, Ga., writes: "We are selling large quantities of Swift's Specific for a spring alterative and general health tonic, and with the best results. It is much used as a preventive and cure for Malaria. There are many remarkable evidences of its merit in this section."

The Great Drug House of Chicago.

We do not hesitate to say that for a year past we have sold more of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) than all other Blood Purifiers combined, and with most astonishing results. One gentleman who used a half dozen bottles says it did him more good than treatment which cost him $500. Another who has used it for a scrofulous affection reports a permanent cure from its use.

VAN SHAACK, STEVENSON & CO.

One gentleman who had been confined to his bed six weeks with Mercurial Rheumatism has been cured entirely, and speaks in the highest praise of S. S. S.
